Hearings begin in drive-by shooting

ANP Staff Writer

Shortly after a drive-by shooting in Romulus on March 29, a Detroit teenage motorist arrested in the incident told Romulus detectives that all he worried about in the shooting was that he might lose his job or his scholarship to Wayne State College.

The defendant, Kofi Myler, 18, a college freshman and resident of Detroit, explained in a statement he gave Romulus detectives that he never thought the shots fired by his 15-year-old friend actually killed Bayete "Yogi" Elrod of

Most of the lengthy statement Myler had given to police was read into the court record last Wednesday by Romulus Detective Sgt. Dan Snyder during Myler's long-delayed pretrial examination before 34th District Court Judge William Actually the preliminary examination has been split into two parts, because the accused 15-year-old gunman's lawyer was unable to attend the Wednesday session.

The hearings have been delayed for weeks because of problems in finding a Wednesday court date that was suitable for four attorneys representing the three murder fendants and a prime state witness.

Late Wednesday morning it was decided to sever the hearings for two of the defendants. Myler and the accused gunman, 15-year-old Nile Miles.

A third defendant, Alan Bradley, 17, asked that his preliminary examination hearing be waived. It is expected he could be a key witness against Myler and Miles at a later trial.

Snyder testified that he read Myler his "Miranda rights" twice, once shortly after Myler was arrested and said he wanted to contact a lawyer and the following day when Myler agreed to give a statement to police.

Myler's attorney, Richard Nelson, asked Szlinis for a suppression of his client's police statement, charging Snyder failed to assist Myler in contacting a defense lawyer.

But Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Curtis Smith successfully argued that the Miranda rights stipulation was centered mostly on halting police questioning when a defendant asked to see a lawyer, not on helping arrange for legal

Myler's statement outlined the events prior to his first visit to Romulus that March weekend, activities inside and outside the Whitehorn Street home and the return visit by Myler and three others when the shooting actually took Myler, in his statement, said he was repeatedly attacked verbally by a man inside the Romulus house March 28 and 29 and repeatedly asked codefendant Bradley to leave with him and go back to Detroit.

While Myler admitted he might have considered having a fistfight with the larger man at the Romulus house, he decided it wouldn't be wise since he was badly outnumbered.

Myler admitted his whole body and jaw "were shaking" as he drove away from the Romulus area following that lengthy confrontation.

He admitted going back to Detroit, discussing the events with friends and then returning with three others and a sawed-off rifle "that looked like it was going to fall apart."

After returning to the Whitehorn Street area, Myler's statement said he yelled out to his passengers that he "chickshots rang out.

back to Detroit and placed the weapon in a garbage can, Myler's statement said.

Nelson said Myler's statement reveals there was no premeditation in the killing of young Elrod and thus urged that if his client was to be bound over for trial, the charge should be dropped to second degree murder or even manslaughter.

Smith countered by saying no killing would have occurred if Myler had not driven individuals with a gun to the Romulus neighborhood and therefore he was equally as

City resident Leo L. Knasiak urged members of the Romulus City Council Monday night to act to enforce ordinances and have local signs inspected and revenues collected for their use.

Mayor Beverly McAnally told Khasiak that she would have the ordinance stipulations researched and would inform him of any decision in the matter at a future date.

Knasiak hand-delivered letguilty as the actual gunman. ters to the city council members Monday night stating that city ordinances state that "an annual inspection of signs" throughout Romulus must be completed and annual fees are to be collected.

He asked in his letter, "Could you please explain to me why these revenues are currently not being collected?" He claimed a city building department official had told him on the phone "we never collect those fees."

Knasiak said such a revenue collection would aid the

Gambling may win city favor

By AL POST ANP Staff Writer

Will casino gambling one day help the city of Romulus overcome the budgetary shortfall?

Both Mayor Beverly McAnally and Community Development Director Jane Dowling are not sure, but they are willing to explore the options.

Both attended a recent informational seminar sponsored by the U.S. Conference of Mayors in New Orleans on April 28 and 29.

McAnally said while she has severe moral objections to casinos opening in Romulus, she feels the city of Romulus needs to explore alternative sources of funding following the past voter turn down of millage hikes for street improvements, drainage upgrades and fire department

Other Michigan city leaders attending the casino seminars came from Flint and Highland

"While we have no clients for such a venture at this time," McAnally said, "we feel that since city taxpayers told us they are not going to give us any more money, we have to look at other avenues of city funding."

Detroit also is considering allowing Native Americans to open casinos if the state legislature allows it.

McAnally said she "has strong reservations about casinos...since they prey on the poor," but at the same time feels some church leaders are somewhat hypocritical by opposing government sanctioned gambling while they operate their own gambling ventures via bingos and raffles.

McAnally said she had discussions with the mayors of Atlantic City and New Orleans about the crime issue and was told, "If you don't have a high crime rate before casinos, you won't have one with casinos."

If she was ever convinced that casinos were in the best interest of Romulus, McAnally said, she would ask that part of the profits go to the churches, gamblers rehabilitation efforts and the city operating budget.

Also attending the casino seminars was Michael Prochaska of Metro World Center, a planned development in Ro-

Dowling said cities are going to be forced to be more "innovative" in realizing revenue, since "tax dollars are so tight today...and we don't want to feel that millage hikes are the only option open to us."

The community development director said "A casino gambling site (possibly as small as 5 acres) could easily be part of a 100-acre real estate initiative for local developers."

Since Romulus is vastly under developed, Dowling said, the way the city develops land will determine how future funding will materialize.

While in New Orleans, McAnally and Dowling found that Louisiana is allowing only one 5-acre gambling site in the entire state and that will be located in New Orleans.

Michigan has made no such decision yet, but Romulus wants to keep the options open in case the state legislature opens the doors for such ven-

Dowling feels such a possible casino site could become a tremendous boon to area ho-

Any potential casino development in Romulus could be located immediately next to the Detroit Metro Airport and not be a major problem for the rest of the city, they said.

"We have 3,300 existing hotel rooms and could set up any potential gambling location where it will be accessible to private cars and public transportation," Dowling said.

"If such a casino project is developed it will not be like those in Atlantic City or Las Vegas," Dowling said. "All the gambling will be limited to the casino area...hence we will not be having slot machines in laundries, grocery stores, etc."

McAnally said the only way she would even consider local casinos is if they were tightly controlled and monitored by law enforcement officials.

The recent trip to New Orleans has allowed Romulus to open contacts for such a venture, Dowling said, and leave us the option of attending a fall conference on casino updates sponsored by the national mayors group.

School employees attend safety class

More than 600 Romulus and ulations for any city or school St. Aloysius School employees and City of Romulus workers recently received special training in the safe handling of blood and other body fluids, Dr. Terrel LeCesne, assistant superintendent of Romulus Schools, said.

The training was provided April 28 at the Romulus Senior High School by Kenneth J. Romans, Registered Nurse at Occupational Health Solutions of Brighton.

During the in-service session, employees were trained in methods to perform their job tasks in a safe manner to greatly reduce or eliminate their chances of contracting a bloodborne disease, such as HIV or HBV.

The training will be followed by free Hepatitis B inocemployee who wishes to have them.

This comprehensive training is mandated by the Occupational Health and Safety Administration for all workers, who may come into contact with another person's blood or body fluids in the course of their jobs.

Teachers, custodians, secretaries, bus drivers and aides are considered to be in such situations in school on a daily

LeCesne said rather than allow a labor dispute to occur, members of the Romulus School Board have opted to offer the inoculations to all employees at no cost.

An exposure control plan to be followed by all school employees is being developed.

"You could hear a pin drop," 8th-grade American history instructor Fred Crissey said. "All of a sudden everything the kids had learned from books is real-you don't have to know history to realize people have done things to put us, as free Americans, in the position we're in. It's very effective."

Some 120 Central students and adult/parent escorts visited the capital recently for a four-day tour of monuments honoring American independence, men and women and heroics, historic battlefields and burial grounds, the National Zoo, the White House and all the activities humanly possible in a relatively short

Pedestrian killed on Eureka Road

A 24-year-old Detroit woman was killed early Sunday morning when she was struck by a car on Eureka Road, Romulus traffic officer Rick Schwartz said.

The victim, whose name was not released pending notification of her family, was walking on the westbound side of the road about 4:40 a.m., Schwartz said, when she apparently was struck by a car operated by a 22-year-old Southgate woman.

Schwartz said charges are pending. It was the sixth traffic fatality in Romulus in 1993.

Walk for Life slated Saturday

Christian laity from at least three local Protestant churches will take part in a Walk for Life program in Ypsilanti Saturday.

The walkers will be collecting funds for the Pregnancy Counseling Center.

The walk beginning at 9 a.m. will be two miles long, so that all ages can participate, according to a spokesman.

Churches with members attending the walk will include the Romulus Wesleyan Church, Community United Methodist Church and Ball Road Tabernacle.

Festival parade route changed

Due to massive traffic increases on Goddard Road because of summer detours, the Romulus Police Department urged council members to change the parade route for the upcoming Romulus Festival during Michigan Week on

The new route will begin at City Hall and then move to Bibbins Street, north on Gabriel (which will be the new staging area) and west on Goddard continuing to the old Junior High School site where the festival will be conducted.

Community Development Director Jane Dowling said Roach "had a very small window of time to make the decision based on major equipment arriving from France, and thus opted to remain at his current Taylor site.

Christians offer prayers for city, state

By AL POST ANP Staff Writer

Romulus City Hall was the site of 30 minutes of prayer and Christian song last Thursday noon.

It was the second consecutive year for a National Day of Prayer service in Romulus. Nationally, the City Hall style services go back to the days of President Dwight Eisenhower

The half hour service featured specific prayers by eight pastors and religious leaders from various Christian churches throughout the city.

While last year the service occurred in a small mall area immediately outside Romulus City Hall, the service this year, coordinated by Victor D. Parker of the Romulus Wesleyan Church, attracted about 30 area residents and took place next to the new Romulus Veterans Memorial.

Participating were the Revs. Bennie Oliphant of the Romulus Community Baptist Church, Neil Swanger and Janette Post of the Ball Road Tabernacle, J.D. Landis of the Community United Methodist Church, Douglas Bishop of the Romulus Church of God, Lovell Wooden Sr. of the Beverly House of God Church, Arthur Willis of the Pentecostal

Missionary Baptist Church and John Jones of the Mount Olive Baptist Church.

In addition to coordinating the prayer effort, Parker also filled in for the Rev. Mike Mc-Clellan of the Wesleyan Church, who was conducting a funeral at the time.

The speakers touched on subjects including:

· Oliphant's call for the Lord to, "Teach President Clinton how to lead this nation...and how to take it back to the principals the nation was founded · Swanger's reminder that, "military strength was based on the hand of God not our armaments." He also urged those in attendance to be thankful that God was a force for peace. · Landis asked the Lord's blessing on those impacted by the nearby violence at the

Dearborn Post Office which had occurred only hours He also urged more compassion for the poor and hurting families and asked God's help in making Michigan a "praying state." Parker asked God to "bless Wayne County as you never have before ... and to point everyone to the cross so that all pastors can bind their Christian spirit while working to save today's youth."

 Bishop thanked the Lord for the increased attendance at the session and proclaimed "we stand here knowing that prayer does work."

· Wooden asked that officials not neglect any resident of the 36- square-mile city.

"Every citizen is important," he stressed, "because we all are somebody. So let's break down the divisions within our city and make it one massive family.'

· Willis praised the "Lord. who has been better to us, than we have been to ourselves."

The half hour session was climaxed with the singing of the hymn "Amazing Grace" led by Landis and a concluding prayer offered by Jones.

Knasiak also complained that many signs-particularly those along Ecorse Road-are request full implementation of unsightly and are not even in compliance with city codes.

"Almost every sign in the city is placed wherever a particular business wants," he

"Your immediate action to this ordinance is recommended," Knasiak wrote.

Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks reminded Knasiak, "The mayor said she will research the law and get back to you."

Knasiak concluded, "I feel the city council needs to request that these revenue-type ordinances be reviewed and enforced so that the revenues could reduce the asking of residents for millage increases."

Hale Creek students collect ton of pet food

By AL POST ANP Staff Writer

Pet loving students at Hale Creek Elementary School collected more than a ton of food and other supplies for the Westland (Animal) Shelter as their service project this past school year.

Through the efforts of the students, the pet food and supplies and more than $200 in cash was collected for the thousands of homeless and injured dogs and cats aided by the Michigan Humane Society.

At 9:30 tomorrow morning, the students will present a pair of clippers for the shelter and a portable cage for the new animal ambulance. The school project was created to give the students an opportunity to learn about the physical, medical, social and emotional needs of animals.

This was accomplished through school presentations and shelter tours during which time the visiting students viewed the various animals at the shelter and actually witnessed an animal surgery. Obedience demonstrations also were conducted by trainers from AAA Center in Taylor. The MHS Education Department reaches more than 15,000 children annually by visiting 350 schools and providing tours of the three shelters located in Westland, Detroit and Rochester Hills.

The goal of the society is to instill attitudes of kindness, compassion and understanding toward all life in the fertile minds of young people, a spokesperson said.

One of the highlights of the year, a school spokeswoman said, was the student adoption of a pet rat named "Boo-boo." The animal is kept in a large aquarium inside the student area and is cared for by students and staff members.

by Sanganur Mahadevan, M.D.

If you suffer from ulcers, you can ulcers aren't treated, they can lead take several measures to control the to malignant tumors (cancer), or condition and relieve the discomfort they can cause.

But if you don't have ulcers keep reading! Ulcers can be prevented - and since there is no known ulcer cure, prevention is the best medicine.

What is an ulcer?

In general terms, an ulcer is an open sore in the lining of the stomach.

When the stomach produces too much acid, the body automatically protects the stomach by secreting a mucous-type substance to counter the acid. However, when there is an imbalance of acid and mucous substances, they irritate the stomach lining and eventually form an ulcer.

Symptoms of ulcers include a dull ache in the upper abdomen, nausea, vomiting of blood, passing of dark stools, and general pain in the stomach area.

If you think you have symptoms they can burrow a hole through the entire stomach lining and require

Good news - ulcers are very preventable

The good news about ulcers is that they are easily prevented. Most often, ulcers are related directly to a person's lifestyle. Extreme stress, smoking, caffeine, alcohol, and aspirin consumption all produce excess acid in the stomach. and therefore lead to ulcers.

Making simple lifestyle changes in these areas will greatly reduce your risk of developing an ulcer.

If you already have an ulcer, you can control its growth and symptoms by making the same lifestyle changes as mentioned above. It also helps to get yourself on a routine try to eat meals, go to sleep, and wake up at set times each day. ## Wetlands move best for all

Last November, we were one of the few voices in the media to applaud the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) decision to permit the expansion of the Woodland Meadows landfill onto the adjacent property in northeast Van Buren Township, and to create a new wetlands in its place in Gibraltar.

It was a solution to a difficult problem, and one that is destined to provide benefits to all parties concerned. Primarily, the decision will pave the way for the development of a landfill that is slated to meet the waste disposal needs of Wayne County for the next two decades.

Implementation of the plan was halted by the Environmental Protection Agency earlier this year, and only recently was the wetlands exchange approved.

Critics, apparently unfamiliar with the type of land involved in the two-parcel transfer, have voiced objections to the "loss of wetlands," even though there is a net gain of 336 acres of wetlands - in a more appropriate site. Those familiar with the Van Buren Township site bordering Interstate-275 recognized it, at best, as a marginal wetland. On the other hand, the Gibraltar site, which is adjacent to the Detroit River and Lake Erie, is in an area that is seasonally flooded and is better suited as a habitat for waterfowl and other forms of wildlife.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, who helped to develop the compromise plan, termed it a "winwin solution for everyone involved."

We agree. The solution was a practical solution to a difficult dilemma, and will result in a wide range of benefits, not the least of which is the preservation of more than 1,600 jobs at the financially troubled McLouth Steel Corp. The agreement provides the following benefits:

 Purchase of the McLouth property will provide funds to strengthen the financial picture of the economically troubled firm and help to preserve jobs.

• Of the 400 acres at the McLouth site, 128 acres will be newly created wetlands, which meets the DNR requirement of a 2:1 ratio for wetlands mitigation.

 Waste Management has pledged an $800,000 grant to support county efforts to improve water quality in the Rouge River basin.

 The landfill will provide the host community (Van Buren Township) with approximately $850,000 annually in royalty fees and grants and also develop an 18-hole public golf course adjacent to the new landfill.

Perhaps one of the best results of the agreement was proof that a partnership of elected officials at the federal, state and local levels and the business community, represented by Waste Management and McLouth Steel, can work together to successfully resolve a problem.

All parties involved in the agreement deserve credit for their innovative solution to the problem. We believe the long-term benefits for all of the residents of Southeastern Michigan will be clearly evident as time goes by, and we hope this landmark agreement will inspire other governmental and business leaders to negotiate other "win-win"

Open season

It has started in earnest.

The quest for election to school board terms of office is under way and candidates are vying for the elusive approval of voters in the June 2 elections.

And now, in Westland, two challengers have already declared their intent to seek the office of mayor against the incumbent.

We congratulate them all. No matter what the outcome of any of this, each is undergoing and will undergo the tremendous financial and psychological strain of a campaign. And each has, if nothing more, offered to serve.

That alone, in this time of political turmoil and school financial crisis, is worth note.

We appreciate their spirit and their energy and thank them, profusely, for making the effort. It takes a special individual to withstand the rigors of a political campaign, only to take on the trials, tribulations and troubles of public office.

We're lucky to have them.

Citizen says city needs help

To the editor:

I am a citizen of Inkster and every time I drive down Michigan Avenue, I see a man beating a woman, maybe a prostitute and a pimp.

Something must be done about it. I think the police should seek more help and put those women someplace and force them to get the help they need, off the streets and drugs.

But we need more help other than the police. Just as our good gold governor, these people must have loved ones and families, too. Let me ask you this, what if this was your son or daughter or wife out

The City of Inkster does need help. Let's get it on the move if we're going to live in this city property.

Resident criticizes prevailing wage

To the editor:

I recently read an article that appeared on page one of The Wayne Eagle dated April 15, 1993. The article, written by Margo Dewey, was regarding the prevailing wage ordinance. I had to read the article at least three times to make sure that what I read wasn't a mistake on my part. After completely understanding the article, I can't help but think that either the mayor of Wayne, Margo Dewey, or the editor/publisher of The Wayne Eagle didn't realize the content or they have a vacuum between their ears. The following are quotations from that front-

"Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield previously informed The Associated Newspapers that paying a prevailing wage does not increase taxes for residents, but it will crate more quality jobs and services for the commu-

"It enhances municipal government, and it enhances the quality of life for the community,' Warfield said. 'It also increases home ownership which contributes to the local and state tax base via property

It appears that this article is what I consider to be a futile attempt to get an ordinance passed on June 2 that would increase the operating costs of the city of Wayne. Where they will get the extra money to pay this is something that the mayor has yet to explain.

It is my opinion that the mayor, with the cooperation of Margo Dewey and her newspaper, should have included in this article that this ordinance will get rid of dandruff, warts.

and grow hair on a cue ball. And then the people that read the article would realize what the article actually says.

The Wayne Eagle only writes positive things like: no tax increases, enhances municipal government, quality of life, increases home ownership, and other thing not related in any way to the prevailing wage. Patrick J. O'Leary

Wayne

Editor's note: Mr. O'Leary has obviously not read previous stories regarding the prevailing wage issue which have presented the opposing viewpoints regarding this ordinance. He obviously also missed the editorial on our opinion page which clearly stated the concerns and objections of Associated Newspapers to the prevailing wage issue. We have gone on record with our opinion and have allowed those with an opposing viewpoint, like Mayor Ken Warfield. to express his arguments for the measure. The voters will now decide the outcome of this difference of opinion. We are obviously not as familiar with dandruff, warts and cue balls as Mr. O'Leary, but appreciate the correspondence, nonethe-

Congressman supports National Service plan

To the editor:

In a matter of days, the House Committee on Education and Labor-which I have the honor to char-will take up one of the most exciting proposals to be offered by President Clinton: the National Service Trust, an initiative that will expand educational opportunity, reward individual responsibility and build community by encouraging Americans of all ages to work together to tackle our common problems.

The initiative offers educational awards to those Americans willing to serve in a variety of programs that benefit their communities, addressing pressing educational, environmental, human or public safety problems.

The programs are open to all individuals, age 17 and up, who have high school diplomas or agree to achieve their GED before using their awards. Individuals may serve before, during or after their post- secondary education.

To qualify for an educational award of $5,000, a participant must complete at least one year of full-time service or two years of part-time service, for which the participant also would be paid a minimumwage stipend and health and child-care benefits as necessary. Awards may be used to repay loans for higher education or to pay for additional post-secondary education or training. Individuals may receive two $5,000 awards.

Qualifying service programs may be operated by federal agencies, states, local governments, school districts, colleges, community-based notfor-profit organizations. The National Service Trust, a government corporation, will help local organizations qualify for the initiative and ensure their public mission is up to standards of usefulness for participants and communities. Thus, the initiative would not establish a new federal bureaucracy to run programs but work with successful organizations to extend their reach.

After WWII, a generation of returning servicemen took advantage of the G.I. Bill to education themselves and help launch America's unprecedented era of prosperity. I was one of those who used the G.I. Bill's education benefits, giving me opportunities beyond those available to people of my parents' generation.

A generation ago, President Kennedy appealed to our sense of service in launching the Peach Corps, a mission that secured America's reputation as the most generous nation on earth. It remains the most admired program of the President Clinton's National Service Trust will build on the legacies of the G.I. Bill and the Peace Corps, helping to create a new era of prosperity for a generation of Americans and nurturing a more compassionate, publicspirited consciousness among our citizens, producing ripples that will benefit us all.

Throughout the 1992 acampaign, in Michigan and across America, the national service principle struck a responsive chord among citizens who sense an urgent need for all of us to cooperate and serve for the benefit of all of us. In approving this important legislation, the members of the Committee on Education and Labor look forward to helping Americans promote a sense of civic responsibility.

Congressman William D. Ford 13th District, U.S. House of Representatives

No vote urged on Prevailing Wage ordinance

To the editor: On June 2, Wayne voters will have a chance to decide on the Prevailing Wage ordinance pushed through by Mayor (Ken) Warfield and three members of the city council. I believe a fair question to ask is "Who's interests does this ordinance serve?"

First, it is not geared to help Wayne businesses. There is no provision that a percentage of contracts will be awarded to support the people who have risked their investment in our city. In fact, this ordinance will likely make it harder on the remaining Wayne businesses wishing to compete for city work. Unless these small businesses pad their labor costs and bring their bids up to the big union outfits, our city will Secondly, this ordinance does not serve the resident Wayne worker. Again, our city council's loyalties do not ask if these out-of-town companies will b hiring any of our community's own qualified tradespeople. What it amounts to is we will likely be paying out nice comfortable wages to workers outside the city to spend somewhere else.

Given a choice and a vote, I say, charity begins at home. And finally, this ordinance does not serve the Wayne taxpayer. Mayor Warfield says this ordinance, "will not automatically raise taxes." That is like saying running through a red light doesn't automatically mean you're going to have an accident. Paying out more for what you might otherwise get for less sounds like the same kind of spend-free government that has gotten our country into a $4 trillion debt.

The mayor also purports that paying prevailing wages will "assure a higher-quality job." That would be because workers simply paid more money will automatically bring out the best results. To that I say "no comment". The point is, what is so wrong about giving the taxpayer a break? Shouldn't the mayor and councilmen Phillips, Kelly and Dickerson be working to put citizen taxpayer interests forward first? Vote no on Prevailing Wage June 2.

James F. Ahrenberg,

Defeat of tax proposal will increase rents

To the editor: One of the worst reasons to vote no on Proposal A is that it doesn't benefit tenants. If Proposal A fails, the resulting property tax increases will be passed on in higher rents faster than a teacher leaving the school parking lot at 3:15 p.m.

Westland man named to Selective Service Board

By JENNIFER PLACINTO ANP Staff Writer

Westland City Council Liason Joseph Benyo has been appointed as a Board Member of the Selective Service System by President Bill Clinton. Benyo, a longtime active resident of the community, was selected following a lengthy process and a background investigation by the federal govern-

As a board member, Benyo could be called on to serve with a draft board in the case of a declaration of war. Board members are responsible for determining which draftees are eligible for deferment from the draft.

"We would be decision makers about who would be drafted," Benyo said.

The responsibility of the board members is to determine who gets deferments and to place people into categories, Benyo said.

Benyo said no two siblings can serve at the same time in the same unit due to the possible loss of life which can be devastating to a family. Benyo gave examples of having to care for a parent or several

Religious conflicts are also taken into consideration. If religious beliefs conflict with the act of killing, for example, the board may give the individual a deferment to a non-fighting status. In this case, the draftee would be placed into a medical, office or similar position

Area students to sing at Camegie Hall

By MARGO DEWEY ANP Feature Editor

It was their dream to become a part of history by taking center stage at Carnegie Hall.

In less than one month, students from the John Glenn Choral Department will fulfill their wishes as they take part in a 200-voice chorus which involves four or five schools from across the U.S.

For more than six months the students and staff from John Glenn have been trying to gather $49,000 to fund the trip. Their efforts have paid off, according to Marjorie Kolacz, general chairwoman of the Carnegie Hall Trip.

"We have reached our goal," Kolacz said. "We raised $11,000 with the silent auction we had a few weeks back. The students had to pay a little on their own, so we're hoping for more donations so we can give them back some money.'

Besides the auction, the students and staff had a fund raiser at Arby's in Garden City and sold Burger King coupon booklets for $1. They also had a successful spaghetti dinner and car wash.

The 200-voice chorus will perform May 30 at Carnegie Hall. The chorus will be conducted by Dr. Jerry Blackstone from the University of Michigan, according to Judith A. Premin, conductor/director of the John Glenn music depart-

"We've had several auditions," Premin said. "It was very difficult to not be able to take everyone, but we are all excited about being asked to become a part of history. It's an that does not require them to fight.

Benyo said the president appoints people to the board who have background and training in the military. Benyo served in the United States Navy during the Korean Conflict and was decorated during that time for his actions.

His role as a board member will be to maintain a "state of readiness" and to keep current on any changes in the law regarding the drafting of armed forces requested by the Department of Defense and approved by Congress in the event of an emergency.

"I was surprised. I was approached a couple of years ago as to whether I was interested," Benyo said.

At that point, he said, a military colonel came to his home to talk with him. After the visit, Benyo didn't hear anything for six months. Benyo said the government was checking his background. After this process was finished and it was determined that he could be fair and objective, he was notified his name was submitted for the board position by the governor. Later Benyo was appointed to the position.

"I don't think it's that big of a deal," Benyo said.

However, Benyo said, he wondered whether or not women could be drafted due to recent rights of women to voluntarily participate in battle.

Benyo said it was discriminatory for the draft only to be male orientated, when women want to have the right to volunteer to fight in war.

"Now that women have won the right to choose to fight in combat, will Congress be requiring them to be drafted?" Benyo questioned.

Mr. Positive Local man makes waves on radio show

By JENNIFER PLACINTO ANP Staff Writer

Westland resident Greg Balteff, is a manager at United Health Spa in Livonia during the day, but at night, he becomes "Mr. Positive.

Balteff does a 15-minute inspirational show on 96.3 WHYT FM Monday through Friday from 8:45 to 9 p.m. In his show, as Mr. Positive, Balteff recites a message focusing mainly on young people and encouraging everyone to reach for their dreams.

Balteff, 29, said there is too much negativity and depression in the world and he wants to help people see the positive side of life.

"I feel people no longer go after their dreams - they accept things. They no longer want to try anymore," Balteff

"I believe in not quitting and 98 percent of people quit," Balteff said.

Balteff said three days of the week he recites messages that ryhme and the other two days he talks about teenage problems such as pregnancy, suicide and drugs.

Here's an example of Mr. Positive in action:

Dreams are a catalyst, the fire of the soul

The bringer of change, attainer of goals

The seeker of truth, the mirror of the mind

The passion of youth, the eyes

But a dream left abandoned is the greatest of sins

So reach into your dreams, and let the games begin!

Balteff started his career at WHYT after calling Sunny Joe Harris in 1985 with his positive messages idea. Harris liked the idea and got Balteff on the air. Balteff moved on to WLLZ 98.7 FM doing the same type of evening program. Now, he is back at WHYT spreading his positive messages.

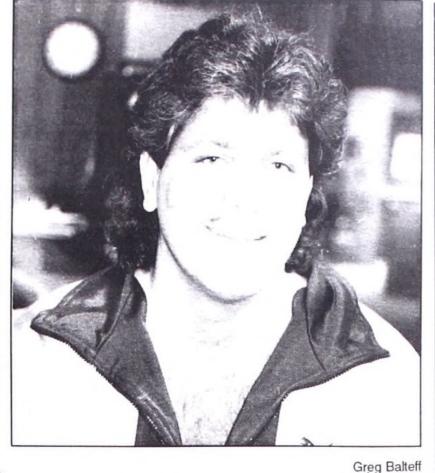

Balteff is keeping a positive attitude on his own career. He said his next step is get a 1-900 line and have his own television show, which he deemed. "Mr. Positive Power Hour." He hopes this show might air on Saturday mornings for children. Balteff's ultimate goal is to be famous.

"I have not achieved my own dreams. My dream is to be internationally known-to be famous," Balteff said.

"It's (radio) only a stepping stone. I feel that with fame you have power and with power you have influence and with influence you have the ability to make a difference," he said.

Balteff wants to eventually act in movies. He said he has only taken some acting classes, but that talent emanates from within. Balteff said he hopes to get the help of his good friends the Barbarian Twins, twin body builders who have acted in D.C. Cab, Flamingo Kid, The Barbarians, Double Trouble and Think Big.

Balteff said he has also met Balteff said.

Madonna, Arnold Schwartzenegger and Sylvester Stallone. In fact, Balteff said he got part of his inspiration from Stallone.

Balteff said he bumped into Stallone at C.J. Barrymore's in Los Angeles several years ago and he gave Balteff these words of advice: "You start with a dream, and then you believe. Your thoughts become magic, and then you achieve."

With influence, Balteff said, he wants to encourage people everywhere to believe in their dreams and to never quit.

Nothing in this world will make your life more enriched than going after your dreams. I want to show people by doing,"

Coach Norm Hoenes

Rockets undefeated

Glenn has hands on divisional baseball title

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Staff Writer

With impressive victories over Farmington and Plymouth-Salem last week, undefeated Westland John Glenn High School players have their hands on the knob to the Western Lakes Division baseball throne room.

Whether coach Norm Hoenes and his charges can open the door to the throne room and take possession of the crown will depend upon how they come out of their battles with North Farmington and Walled Lake Central. (The Rockets played North last night and will travel to Central on Friday.)

"This is definitely a big week for us," said Hoenes, whose club has compiled a 12-2 overall and a 4-0 Lakes record. "If we can make it through this week unscathed, we should be in great shape."

Glenn exploded for seven runs in the top of the third on way to a lopsided 11-0 victory over Farmington. While the Glenn bats were pounding losing pitcher Ron Solomonman for 13 hits, Rocket hurler Bryan Besco twirled a five-hitter to chalk up his fourth victory in five

The senior Glenn southpaw notched seven strikeouts and walked one.

The umpires called the game, under the mercy rule after six when the Westlanders had a 10-run advantage over their divisional rivals. The Rockets received an exceptional performance at the plate from senior Aaron Scheffer, who collected four hits, including a pair of doubles in five trips. He also had two runs batted in.

Besco helped his own case with a three-for-four day at the plate while teaminate Mike Bint knocked in three runs and had two for three.

Earlier in the week, Glenn turned back Salem 6-1 behind Scheffer's fourhitter. The rugged right-hander struck out four and walked one. He missed a shutout when the Rocks put a run on the board in the bottom of the fifth.

Mike Marsella of Salem, who also had four strikeouts and two walks, was tagged for two runs in each of the fifth and seventh innings and gave up a single tally in the fourth.

Jeromy Crosby homered off of the Salem hurler, blasting one of Marsella's curveballs over the fence in straightway left. In the fourth, Tack walked, stole second and raced home on Jarrod Hura's RBI single. A pair of doubles by Scheffer and Greg Nesbitt after James had singled led to the Rockets' runs in the fifth. A leadoff Scheffer single in the seventh, a single by Nesbitt, a double by Besco and Tack's sacrifice fly that scored Nesbitt accounted for the Rockets' seventh inning runs.

An error and Allan Moran's double gave the Rocks their lone run in the

Tigers wear a tourney crown

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Staff Writer

Behind Chuck Coleman's six-hitter, Belleville buried Manchester 13-2 to win a divisional baseball title at the 1993 Cliff Keen Invitational.

It is the fourth time in six years that the Tigers have walked off the diamond at Ann Arbor Pioneer with a firstplace trophy in their pockets. Pioneer sponsors the annual tournament.

"We managed to suc-cessfully defend our title," said Belleville coach John Bertz. "We take this tournament seriously. There are a lot of excellent teams that compete here.

"And, of course, I am proud of our kids for winning again this year.'

The victory boosted the overall Belleville record to 16-7 on the year. However, the pre-season Wolverine 'A' Conference title favorite is sandwiched in the middle of the pack in the race for the last title in their league. They sport a 4-4 league record as the week got underway.

Coleman gathered goose eggs until the fourth when he gave up his first run against Manchester. They also scored in the sixth. In the meantime, the Tiger hurler notched 11 strikeouts and walked five to chalk up the victory.

Losing pitcher Jeff Barnard got into trouble early as he gave up a bases-loaded triple to Rich Brennan, who went two for five for the game. Bobbie Sackrider also tagged a solo homer off of the Manchester pitcher in the second inning and finished with two hits and two RBIs.

Ralph Truitt drove in two Belleville runs. He had two

With a berth in the championship cliched, the Tigers allowed Ypsilanti to slip from their mitts, 8-7, but they bounced back to whip Saline 8-5 thanks to a five-run top of the seventh rally.

Belleville also rallied for three runs in the last of the seventh to edge Trenton 8-7 in a conference matchup last week. Truitt, who started for the Tigers on the mound, gave way to Ryan McLain who made his pitching debut a successful one. In the bottom of the seventh, with one-away, Belleville scored the winning runs thanks to Clint Kessler's single, a walk to Jeremy Gray and an RBI base hit off the bat of Sackrider. Rick Chadwick's double scored Gray, and freshman Mike Kinzel, who was given varsity status earlier in

National next

After an outstanding team performance at the state tournament where local martial arts enthusiasts collectively won 23 gold medals, 14 silvers and five bronzes, master Christer Covert and his staff - head coach Raunilio Galang and assistant coach Abraham Kassem are preparing to take their charges to the national tournament. The United States Tae Kwon Do Union staged its state championships at the Inkster Recreation Complex. Local and area participants of the Garden City Olympian Chung Do Kwan include: Jason Clark (front row, from left), Billy Farner, Jamie Clark, Rocky Fogg and Daniel Holmes; second row are David Smith, Christina Marini, Erik Zamudio, Mark Kittle, Benjamin Kittle, Tim Mirabitur Jr., David Holmes, and Kassem; third row are Galang, James Fogg, Jerry Judkins, Ken Galea, Richard Schultz, Joe Keczur, Janet Coursey, Matt Harvey, Stephan Berna, and Covert. To compete at the nationals, Covert said his team will need financing. They are planning several fundraisers. If you wish to help, telephone 522-1744. ANP Special Photo

Romulus finds a pair of wins on the road

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Staff Writer

Sometimes the handwriting on the wall can be deceptive. Just ask Romulus baseball coach Don Foley.

When Adrian exploded for seven runs in the bottom of the fifth, it appeared that it was all over for Foley's Eagles.

Not so. Romulus took six of those runs back in its sixth, then turned to Brian Bartholomew, who pitched 1 1/3 innings of scoreless ball, to preserve a 9-8 Eagle victory over their ex-

South Central adversary.

Bartholomew got credit for the win, in relief. Foley started Ron Yount on the mound but was forced to removed him after the senior complained of a sore arm. Yount handed the ball to reliever Charles DuD-

"Ron complained about a sore arm after finishing the first, so I decided to go with DuDonis who pitched a strong game until the fifth."

Romulus batted around in its sixth as Yount ignited the rally. He singled off of loser Matt Dermeyer, who then gave up a base hit to Mike Barwikowski. With runners on first and second, Matt Wojtylko sliced a run-scoring single and, when Dermeyer served up a walk to Rick Luczak loading the bases, that was all for the Adrian starter.

Scott Kirkkendall stepped in and, after striking out the first man he faced, Jeff Blanton then hit into a fielder's choice that Kirkkendall bobbled.

That brought Bartholomew to the plate, and he came through for the Eagles. He drilled one of Kirkkendall's pitches over the left field

Relays provide Tigers

Thursday to the final Wolverine 'A' Conference championship.

The Tigers got by the previously unbeaten Wayne, 80 1/2 to 56 1/2 for their fifth consecutive conference win. And only a breakdown against a pesky Monroe could spoil the Tigers' chances of winning the title.

Belleville coach Dave Medley and Wayne Memorial coach Floyd Carter agreed that the key to the dual meet was the speed relays.

"I felt that we broke their backs when we won both the 400 and 800- meter relays," said Medley, whose Tigers picked up 11 out of a possible 17 first places. Although the win enhances the Belleville chances for the final conference championship - the conference will be dissolved after the current school year - the Tigers don't have a clear run at it, yet. Southgate Anderson should not give Belleville any problems when the two meet today at Southgate. However, the Tigers still have to meet Monroe (May 13), a team that can shatter their title plans.

Belleville senior Al Barnett and Curtis Lunsford continue to impress as they provided the Tigers with four of their 11 first places. Barnett had little opposition in the shot put. His toss of 55 feet, 7 inches was the best of the afternoon. He also won the discus with a 152-feet, 1/2-inch-effort. Lunsford led the field in the 200-meter dash (22.5), and he also was clocked in the winning time of 50.7 for

Relay lifts Wayne

It went down to the last event and thanks to a superb effort by the Wayne Memorial High School mile relay team, the Zebras managed to pull out a narrow 66-62 victory over the Belleville women's track and field team.

"Wayne's sprinters are just outstanding," said Belleville coach Sam Vicchy, whose club is sporting a 3-3 record in the women's division of the Wolverine "A" Conference.

"They (Wayne) have an excellent team this year," Vicchy

Belleville wasted an outstanding performance by senior Anne Gray, who won both the 1600-meter run (5:36), the 800-meter race (2:36.6) and contributed to the Tigers' victory in the 2-mile relay. The Belleville senior teamed with Lorie Painter, Tina Harmon and Kelley Vurlew for the winning time of 11:17.

Harmon won the 3200 with a 13.09 and Anna Seidel chalked up a victory for the Tigers in the 400-meters with a 65.4

Inkster sprinter wins Flint invitational title

Inkster High School sophomore sprinter Charnell Lynn continued to display signs of greatness as she captured a gold medal at the prestigious Flint Invitational last weekend.

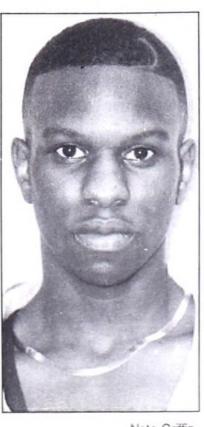

Lynn, ranked as one of the best young sprinters in the country by USA Today, fought a strong head-wind to finish the 100-meter dash in the winning time of 12 seconds.

She was the only local female athlete to capture a gold at the meet, which brought together some of the top athletes and teams in the state to Flint.

Inkster also returned with a fifth-place medal in the high jump relays thanks to the combined efforts of James Outlaw and Marcus Upthegrove.

Although they finished "out of the money" in sixth-place, the Vikings' 400-meter men's relay team of Michael Sykes, Outlaw, Greg Prewitt and Mondo Predue convinced coaches that they will be a factor in the race for the Class B state title in that event. The Inkster foursome was clocked in 43.77, a notch behind the fifth-place team (43,76).

"However, we ran one of the fastest times in the state (Class B) this year," said assistant Inkster coach Keith Bailey. "In fact, we beat the defending Class B state champ, Flint Beecher, on Saturday. We will be a team to reckon with at the state championships."

Wayne splits with defending champ Monroe

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial may not be in the title race, but coach Jim Chronowski and the Zebras continue to have a lot to say on which team will eventually wear the Wolverine 'A' Conference baseball crown.

Backed by Tadd Kempainen's six-hit pitching performance, the Zebras slowed down the speeding Monroe title-express, 7-3, in the first game of a twin bill last week. In a make-up of a game rained out earlier this season, Monroe came back and won a close 9-8 decision as Wayne blew an 8-2 Kempainen whiffed seven and walked three to even up his overall record to 3-3 on the year. He's 2-3 in the league.

Wayne put the Trojans away in the bottom of the fourth with a four-run surge.

Leading the Zebras' 13-hit assault against the defending champs were Dave Henry, who collected four for four, including three singles and a double. The senior third baseman also drove in three runs. Teammates Bill Romej and Chris Moore chipped in two hits while Jeremy Cox had a pair of singles and a double in four trips to the plate.

Monroe rallied for three runs in the bottom of the fifth and came back for another trey in the sixth to erase an 8-2 deficit to win a thriller, 9-8 as Kempainen digested the loss in relief of Cox.

Cox worked the first 4-2/3 innings before yielding to the reliefer. The Wayne starter allowed six of the nine runs. He accounted for two of the seven Wayne hits, including three RBIs. Romej checked in with a pair of singles and an equal number of runs batted in while Jeremy Treppa scored twice, had an RBI in a two for four afternoon.

Wayne pounded Southgate Anderson 6-3 as Cox hammered a bases-loaded double that gave the home team a 4-0 lead in the third. Although Anderson came back for two runs in its fourth, Hemry settled down and got the victory. He's 1-1 in the league.

Wayne began the week with a 3-4 conference and a 5-6 overall record. The Zebras will return to the playing field on Friday at Trenton High.

Each year, hundreds of children and young people are abducted and exploited.

Their parents and family wait anxiously day after day for word of their child who was so viciously taken from their home.

The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children is in the business of publicizing and ultimately solving these mysterious disap-

The Center, based in Virginia, is responsible for most of the missing children advertisements which you see on milk cartons, billboards and

The photographs on this page were taken from the files of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. They are all actively being sought by their parents, with very few leads.

These children may be living in your neighborhood, attending your church, or even sitting next to your child in school. They are out there somewhere.

Anyone with information concerning the whereabouts of any of these children is asked to call the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children at 1-800-843-5678.

If your child is missing, call your local police department right away. If your child is at home, hug them and tell them about the danger of the world and teach them to be safe.

Thanks to these local businesses for sponsoring these missing children.

Artrain explores vehicles and voyages

Artrain-America's only traveling museum in a train features a fine arts exhibition which explores artists' fascination with the technology of travel and the lure of the open Curated by Dr. Ellen Plummer of the University of Michigan Museum of Art, The Romance of Transportation encompasses works dating from the 1800s through the present created by worldrenowned artists.

The exhibition includes approximately 60 works from Michigan and regional collections which will be on display during the 1993-94 tour sea-

Hands-on activities, music and audiovisual programs offer visitors new ways of experiencing the objects on exhibit.

Travel has been an integral part of the North American psyche ever since the continent was settled by people crossing the Bering Strait from Asia or traversing the Atlantic Ocean from Europe.

During the past two centuries, modes of transportation have multiplied at an astounding rate and have included everything from Conestoga wagons to spaceships; an exploratory fervor seized the public's imagination as rail, air and automobile travel

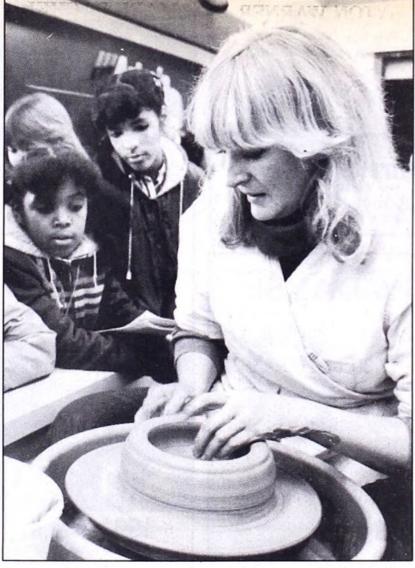

Planes, trains and auto- shrank distances and drew mobiles; paintings, prints and diverse cultures together. The Romance of Transportation presents this transportation phenomenon from many viewpoints and through many me-

> The exhibition explores a variety of themes including the opening of the West, the coming of the railroad, and our love/hate relationship with the automobile.

> Artists from different backgrounds represent these ideas in many ways. Elizabeth Wilson McFadden Ross has created a quilt titled The Rocky Road to Kansas which includes similarities to SAS Passenger Ticket, an oversized New Yorkto-Stockholm plane ticket demonstrated by Andy Warhol. The Dashing Demon, an etching by Otto Kuhler, shows a powerful locomotive racing around a curve; and Paul Weller evokes the frustration of autoownership in his print Breakdown depicting a dejected family alongside their disabled car.

Another theme developed in the exhibition examines the ways in which artists use vehicles as canvases. Artists Reginald Marsh, Susan Hall and Don Eddy have created paintings and prints which are portraits of vehicles and emphasize aesthetic beauty rather than function.

Artrain's transparency section includes photographs of Car Art in which artists have transformed cars into mobile sculpture by decorating them with objects ranging from jewelry to dolls to television sets to wrought-iron scrollwork.

The Romance of Transportation also looks at how artists select and adapt reality as they create.

Other themes central to the exhibition are the thrill of discovery and exploration; vehicle design; the relationship between vehicle and social status; and artists' progression from realism to abstraction as demonstrated through transportation subject matter.

Wayne hosts extravaganza

America's fascination with the West through the same stetravel and technology will be reoview images that fired the ine theme when Artrain brings The Romance of Transportation exhibition to the City of Wayne May 13-16.

The nation's only traveling museum in a train, Artrain is comprised of converted rail cars housing exhibition galleries and an artists' studio and annually visits approximately 25 communities.

Wayne is one of only 50 towns and cities that will host the event during 1993 and 1994.

The Romance of Transportation features approximately 60 works from Michigan and regional collections. Included will be paintings, sculptures, photographs and prints depicting transportation forms ranging from bicycles to space Artrain visitors will encounter familiar names in art as well as discover new ones. Among artists represented in the exhibition are pop artist Andy Warhol, realist Thomas Hart Benton, sculptor Claes Oldenburg, African-American College artist Romare Bearden, photographer Dorothea Lange and photorealist Richard Estes.

Hands-on displays, music and audio-visual programs offer innovative means of experiencing the exhibition that will appeal to art lovers of all ages. For example, visitors can explore the vast expanses of imaginations of their ancestors; and relive the "Wreck of the Ol' 97" through a recording of a once-popular song commemorating that railroad disaster, as well as viewing a photograph of the actual wreck and artwork created by Benton.

Lenders to The Romance include: the Detroit Institute of Arts, University of Michigan Museum of Art, Henry Ford Museum, Kresge Art Museum of Michigan State University, Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum, Flint Institute of Arts, Muskegon Museum of Art, Grand Rapids Art Museum and Dearborn Historical Artrain has traveled to 33 states and delighted more than two million adults and children since its first stop in 1971. A non-profit corporation, Artrain is supported in part by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs.

Locally, the City of Wayne and Chamber of Commerce have contributed to bring Artrain to Wayne. Conrail has provided transportation for the mobile museum.

Artrain will be located on the Conrail tracks at Elizabeth Street and open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 13 and 14, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. May 15 and 16. There is no admission fee for touring Artrain.

Artrain houses a history of memories

Artrain has been a catalyst dio car where artists give for the formation of many local arts councils, the creation of artist-in-residence programs, and the development of annual arts festivals.

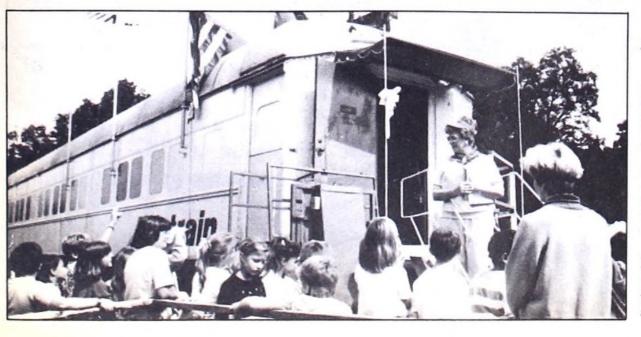

Artrain received the 1990 Governor's Arts Organization Award for its 20 years of outstanding service in arts outreach and education to Michigan and the nation.

The tour begins with a fourscreen audio-visual introduction to the objects and themes of the exhibition, continues through the galleries and museum shop and ends in the studemonstrations.

Only one person travels on the train as it moves from community to community.

Sentencing set for Wayne residents

A May 26 and June 10 sentencing has been set for two Wayne residents charged with armed robbery before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge M. John Shamo

Jason Will, 19, and Patrick Williams, 22, were arrested by the Wayne Police Department for allegedly taking money, jewelry and beepers from various individuals 11:30 p.m. March 15 at George's Fun Center parking lot, 35501 west Michigan Ave.

A May 20 final conference has been scheduled for Cory Nash, 19, the third defendant in the case, before Shamo.

All three suspects appeared for an examination April 5 before 29th. District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold. A $1,000 bond was set for Nash, and Will and Williams each received a $5,000 bond.

Williams was also charged with felony firearm, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

The Wayne residents were arraigned before Judge Gail McKnight at an out county court.

Wayne police arrested Williams on a second armed robbery incident which occurred 9:45 p.m. March 23 at George's Fun Center. He was charged with armed robbery on the March 23 incident, and a $10,000 cash bond was set.

All the arrests were a result of an investigation conducted by Wayne police Sgt. Chris Johnson and Sgt. Bob McIntyre, according to Drews.

Drug raids root out marijuana suppliers

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Staff Writer and By AL POST ANP Staff Writer

Wayne and Inkster police have arrested a 24-year-old Wayne man who they said is a major manufacturer and supplier of marijuana in the area.

Police raided residency of David Seibert, who lives with his sister in the 4900 block of Walker in the city of Wayne and arrested him after finding a large quantity of marijuana in the basement of the house.

Seibert was arraigned in 29th District Court and charged with violation of the Public Health Code. He will face an examination on the charge on Monday.

Police said that they also found a large quantity of drug paraphernalia in the basement. There were at least 26 small and at seven large suspected marijuana plants.

We believe that the suspect was a moderate supplier of marijuana to this area. 77

Wilbert Reid

"We believe that the suspect was a moderate supplier of marijuana to this area," said acting Inkster Police Chief Wilbert Reid. "We have had our eye on the operation for some time."

According to police reports, undercover narcotics agents have made "buys" from the suspect with marked police bills.

Police said they seized about $1,200 in cash from Seibert's bedroom safe. They also confiscated about $190 in change and a large quantity of television sets, stereo equipment and VCRs.

Police believe that the suspect was using the basement of the single-family house to cultivate the plants, then manufacturer marijuana.

When Wayne and Inkster police raided the house, Seibert was standing in the yard with a second subject who identified himself as an out-of-state resident. After questioning him, police released him.

Seibert informed police that he took up residency with his sister about a year ago.

Because the arrest and the alleged violation of the health code occurred in Wayne, the case is being handed by the Wayne Police Department. Inkster police, who assigned at least two detectives to help in the raid, assisted their neighboring community in the arrest, according to Reid.

Members of the Romulus Police special investigatory squad and federal Drug Enforcement Administration agents raided a heavily fortified home on Farnum Street late Thursday afternoon and confiscated 75 marijuana plants, Satanic lit-

Wedding bells Couple is wed at ampitheatre

By MARGO DEWEY ANP Feature Editor

Love is in full bloom this spring, especially at Goudy Park in Wayne.

Cupid's arrow struck the hearts of 23-yearold Westland resident Jason McAnalley and his new bride, Laura V. Ericson, 20, from Wayne

McAnalley, a U.S. Marine, left this weekend for Japan. Before he left, however, he wanted to make sure the love of his life would know the level of his commitment.

McAnalley, a 1987 Wayne Memorial High School graduate, and Ericson, a 1990 Wayne graduate, were married at the new amphitheater in Goudy Park May 11 by Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield.

It was the first wedding at the amphitheater and while the ceremony was short it was sweetened with family and friends wishing the couple endless love and happiness.

"We've been dating for about five years," Ericson said. "We almost got married two years ago, but I got scared so we didn't."
Ericson said it was when her boyfriend

Ericson said it was when her boyfriend found out he would be stationed in Japan for one year that he wanted her to be his wife regardless of the distance that would be between them.

"I wasn't scared anymore when he asked me this time, but I'm not going to be able to go to Japan with him," Ericson said. "I'm at Eastern Michigan studying occupational therapy. I have two more years to go, so I didn't want to leave without finishing."

Ericson said she is going to miss her new husband, but since they've known each other for a long time the absence will only make the heart grow fonder.

Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield officiated at the first wedding ceremony at the new Goudy Park Ampitheatre in Wayne last week uniting Laura V. Ericson and Jason McAnalley. ANP photo by Joan Dyer-Zinner

"I think the best thing about Jason is he has a great personality and strong family values," Ericson said. "We get along very well. One of our favorite things we like to do together is take karate lessons in Canton Township."

take karate lessons in Canton Township."

The newlyweds plan to get remarried in a Catholic church when McAnalley returns.

"We originally wanted to get married in a Catholic church, but since he didn't have enough time, we decided to do it this way," Ericson said.

McAnalley will be serving in the U.S. Marines for four years. He is currently involved in the communications division, according to his bride.

Ericson, a lifetime resident of Wayne, said after she graduates from Eastern she will then join her husband wherever he is stationed.

"When he comes back next year, we will most likely live in Ypsilanti where I live right now while I'm going to school," Ericson said.

This was the first wedding Warfield performed at the amphitheater. He usually conducts weddings in the council chambers of City Hall, according to City Clerk Doris Nall.

"When the father of the bride came to ask if the mayor could marry his daughter and future son-in-law, he passed by the amphitheater and thought it would be a good idea to have the ceremony outside," Nall said. "The Parks and Recreation Department is establishing a fee schedule to have a wedding at the amphitheater, but since one wasn't made up at that time, they received the ceremony complimentary."

Approximately two weeks notice is needed to arrange to have the mayor marry a couple, according to Nall.

"We get more requests of course in the spring and summer," Nall said.

Judge strikes down law as 'unconstitutional'

By TOM MOORADIAN ANP Staff Writer

Stressing that the constitution requires that any normal person understand the law, 29th District Court Judge Carolyn A. Archbold ruled last week that the City of Wayne ordinance covering loitering is unconstitutional.

The question involving the constitutionality of the Wayne ordinance surfaced after an Inkster High School student was arrested in April for loitering at the Wayne Memorial Homecoming Dance.

The defendant, Edward Brown, was at the dance with a group of his friends who were students at Wayne High School.

Several Wayne and Westland police officers were dispatched to the dance to investigate a report that one of the students in a limousine had a gun.

According to reports, Brown ran from the officers and was subsequently arrested on charges of assault and loitering.

In the wake of the arrest, the suspect was conveyed to Annapolis Hospital for treatment of injuries reportedly received during his arrest.

Brown, represented by Inkster criminal attorney Steven Bullock, was found not guilty of assault of a police officer by Archbold, who delayed her decision on the second charge, loitering, pending further legal arguments by Bullock and the Wayne City Attorney's Office.

the Wayne City Attorney's Office.

Bullock challenged the Wayne city ordinance (656.02) on loitering, arguing that the local law should be declared void because of vagueness. He noted in his legal brief that a criminal statute may be challenged for vagueness on three grounds: 1 - It doesn't provide fair notice of conduct proscribed; 2 - It confers on the trier of fact unstructured and unlimited discretion to determine whether and offense has been committed, or, 3 - It is over broad and impinges on a First Amendment freedom.

Bullock managed to show that all three grounds apply to the Wayne loitering ordinance and therefore the ordinance should be declared unconstitutional.

"Finally, and most glaring, is this ordinance's impingement on the First Amendment freedom to peaceably assemble.

"This ordinance - even when properly read - is constitutionally over broad, therefore, fatally deficient since it seeks to prohibit innocent conduct as well as criminal conduct. In People v. Penn, 70 Mich App 638 (1976), teenagers who linger, talking, in the school parking lot after school and then move on when a police officer pulls into the parking lot would be subject to application of this ordinance.

"Persons standing lawfully on a public sidewalk could be judged 'criminal' by the simple act of not hesitating and waiting while travelling police cars pass them for fear that the officer might construe their simultaneous departure to be 'alarming'," Bullock stated in his brief.

'alarming'," Bullock stated in his brief.
Archbold apparently agreed with Bullock's arguments, and rendered her decision supporting his position. But she added she couldn't comment because the case could go to appeal.

"The city has 21 days to appeal this court's decision," Archbold said. "Therefore I can't comment. But I have dismissed the case against Brown and yes, it is my opinion that the ordinance is unconstitutional."

Westland Crowley's store to be closed

By JENNIFER PLACINTO ANP Staff Writer

Despite the negotiation of an $8 million line of credit and the narrow evasion of a Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding, Crowley, Milner & Co. management will close the Westland store on Ford Road.

Reportedly the Detroitbased retailer narrowly evaded a Chapter 11 filing by negotiating a new line of credit that will provide up to $8 million in borrowing. The Westland store will be closed due to lack of profitability, according to Crowley's representatives.

The Westland store opened in 1986 and employs about 40 individuals. Store equipment and leasehold improvements were financed through a loan agreement totaling $2 million with the Westland Economic Development Corporation. Economic Development Director Scott Veldhuis said Crowley's owes about $800,000 on the loan, which it reportedly intends to pay.

Veldhuis said that the $800,000 is not a concern of the city, because the money is not paid to Westland, but rather to people who purchased bonds through the loan agreement.

Veldhuis explained that when the Economic Development Department issues a loan agreement, no money is loaned from the city. Rather, Veldhuis said, the money to pay for the loan is provided by many people who purchase bonds through the loan agreement.

The money spent to purchase these bonds goes to Crowley's and serves as a loan which they must pay back with interest. The purpose of the loan agreement is to encourage businesses to open in the city by allowing bond holders to collect their payments, with interest, tax free.

"People (bond holders) make a lot of money off this," Veldhuis said.

Although Crowley's is expected to pay the bond holders the remaining $800,000, Veldhuis said the bond holders have no recourse if the company decides not to pay.

"Obviously they have an obligation to pay," Veldhuis said. "However, If they don't pay, the bond holders can't recover their money."

Bullock said that he was satisfied with the judge's ruling. 'We are satisfied with the judge's ruling and believe she was on point in her decision. After reviewing this ordinance, it was clear to me that no city attorney had even reviewed the wording of this ordinance as it would not have passed a first-year law student's constitutional muster. "Moreover, this was to be a special evening for Edward, his date and their friends. It turned into a horrible and devastating nightmare with Edward in the hospital for the injuries he received during his arrest."

Bullock added that he hoped that the Wayne City Council would "act promptly to rewrite this ordinance with an attorney's guidance."

Wayne city officials were not available for comment.

erature, drug paraphernalia, an assualt weapon and a pipe bomb.

Lt. Robert Brown, administrative officer in Romulus, revealed the raided "house was heavily fortified with steel bars, doors reinforced with steel and windows covered with sheet metal."

Two Romulus residents, a 26-year-old male and 30-yearold female, were arrested and drug and weapons charges are pending, Brown explained.

Outside, the home was protected by a high wooden fence reinforced with razor wire hidden on the inside, Brown said.

The weapons seized included a AK-47 assault weapon, ammunition and 30 round clips, a bullet proof vest, gas mask and survivalist knives.

Brown also said "the male subject had manuals on booby traps, survivalist guides and Satanic literature including photos, graffiti and drawings on the walls of the home.

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department bomb squad dismantled the bomb, while the Romulus Fire Department stood by as a precaution, Brown said.

Other charges and arrests are possible, police sources said.

Mettetal Airport sale in holding pattern

By CRAIG GARRETT

ANP Staff Writer

The sale of Mettetal Airport remains up in the air, a state aeronautics official said Thursday, until final reports from a Canton Township airport study committee are submitted this week.

William Gehman, deputy director of the Michigan Bureau of Aeronautics, said "no decision" has been made concerning the proposed $4.6-million purchase by Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) officials apparently concerned with dwindling numbers of small community airfields. Gehman participated in a five-member airport committee meeting Thursday in Canton administration offices.

The committee was charged several weeks ago with determining economic impact of the pending sale, possible expansion plans and community passion, either for or against the controversial transaction. The committee was not asked to make recommendations.

"Pat Nowak (Michigan Department of Transportation director) will consider your report," Gehman told committee members, several interested residents and township attorney Andrea Fischer. "He has not made a final decision."

Airport committee members, minus excused chairman Bruce Patterson, met for a third two-hour session to question Gehman on several presale priority topics including: state and federal plans to expand the 2,500-foot single-strip airport, exactly how many parcels of surrounding property will be purchased and why, who pays, who will operate the site and who, ultimately, has final control.

When you work in a family business, you know you can depend on your co-workers.

"The best part of working in a family business is that you can depend on your family,' said Joyce Rochowiak, who operates Garden Fantasy with her husband, Walter, and their daughter and son-in-law, Colette and Brian McClinton. "If Walt and I need a rest, the kids can run the business, and we know everything will be well taken care of when we return. We never have to worry when we leave."

"I like the closeness of working with my family," said Walter Rochowiak. "I know they are dependable and they feel the same responsibility about the business as we do.'

Often, the Rochowiaks' yearold granddaughter, Whitney, accompanies Colette to work and is already "arranging the greeting cards and thinning out the carnations to get the feel of the business," said Walter Rochowiak.

"If I were to speculate on whether or not she'll be in the business in another 15 years or so, I'd say yes. I think she has the traits to work with flowers, like her mother and grandmother," he said.

Walter and Joyce Rochowiak both learned their trade through practical experience during the past 25 years that they have operated the greenhouse and floral shop.

Walter studied at a horticultural school and Joyce took some classes in floral design, but most of their skills are self-taught ones.

"You either have it or you don't. It is an art to arrange flowers, and Joyce naturally has the talent," Rochowiak

"When I was in high school, I worked at a greenhouse. Later, I built my own and added to it, little by little," Rochowiak said. "We started our business about three years after we got married. My brother and I were partners for approximately 10 years. Then, in 1980, we dissolved the partnership."

Joyce Rochowiak and her daughter operate the retail portion of the business, while Walter and his son-in-law operated the whole portion.

The family is looking forward to opening their new location on Tyler and Morton-Taylor Road before the end of

In addition to operating his greenhouse business, Rochowiak is serving his second four-year term as a Van Buren Township trustee. His wife is an active member of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club, and they both devote time to community activities.

Family shares drive for success

By MARGO DEWEY ANP Feature Editor

Ford really did have a better idea for the Demmer fam-

For more than 36 years, Jack Demmer has operated his Ford dealership in the area, and his sons have followed him in the family business.

Demmer is the chief executive officer and chairman of Jack Demmer Ford. His eldest son, Bill Demmer, is the president and Jim Demmer is the vice president at the Wayne dealership.

Even when the two sons were younger, they had aspirations of working alongside their father, according to Bill Demmer.

"When my brother and I were knee high we knew we wanted to be in business with my father," Bill Demmer said.

"My dad started the business in 1957 with a partner, Jim Spitler. He later bought out his partner in 1974."

Jack Demmer Ford wasn't always located at the current location on Michigan Avenue which is 1 1/2 miles east of I-275. In fact, Demmer Ford was situated in the Associated Newspapers building from 1963 to 1969, according to Demmer.

"We then moved to this location October 1969," Demmer said. "Previous to the Associated Newspapers building we were located on Wayne Road at Glenwood."

Keeping the business in the family is an ideal situation for the 125 current employees and the family members, according to Demmer.

"It's enjoyable to work together as a family because if one of us has to leave for business or other matters, we know that each of us can slide into the other's position," Demmer

Although each of the Demmers strives to provide their customers with quality service and guaranteed satisfaction, Demmer said he also is more of the innovator in the family at Jack Demmer Ford.

"I'm the one who tries to implement new ideas to try and improve the services we have," Demmer said. "I push more to make things happen more quickly."

The Demmer family also includes four sisters, none of whom chose to become involved in the family business.

Jack Demmer Ford has a $7 million inventory which consists of 514 new vehicles and is one of the largest Ford Motor Co. franchises and a top 10 Detroit-area Ford dealer, Demmer noted proudly.

Obviously, this family is doing something right.

Brothers find careers in public safety

By JENNIFER PLACINTO ANP Staff Writer

Public safety really is a family business with the Reddy brothers- both the older and younger Westland generations.

When John Reddy Jr. assumed the duties of deputy police chief in Westland last August, it was only one month after his brother Mike became assistant fire chief. That's the way it works in their family. The two advanced to their respective assistant chief posts in July and August last year and, barring any unforeseen circumstances, the two may fill the offices of police and fire chief in the city some day.

The pair come by their public service careers naturally and credit their father, John Reddy, Sr. with establishing a sense of values and volunteerism for them while they were growing up. The senior Reddy, who is still active in the area, has more than 50 years of involvement in the community.

Reddy Sr. has been an active member and volunteer with the Knights of Columbus, Goodfellows and local Parent Teacher Organizations among

And the first member of the family to join the police department was step-brother Tom Taylor--who incidentally also served as mayor of Westland for a number of years later in his career.

Taylor was a Wayne police officer and inspired Reddy to join the Westland force with tales of his adventures and experiences.

"We're a people-oriented family. We like helping people," Mike Reddy said.

John Reddy talked his brother, Mike, into joining the fire department. Reddy began working at the police department in 1967 and his brother began working at the fire department in 1976.

And these two public servants have been followed by Mike Reddy's two sons, Michael, Jr. and Martin, who are both Westland firefighters.

Mike Reddy said the most enjoyable thing about his job is putting together new programs. He described public safety as a people-oriented career and said there is nothing he does not like about his job.

"I really have not found any areas I dislike," Mike Reddy

The assistant police chief said being able to help people is the best thing about his job. "The worst thing about it is dealing with people who don't have any control of their destinies," he commented.

"We administer a band-aid to things when we can't find a permanent solution to a problem. Most solutions we provide are temporary, not permanent," Reddy said, citing the example of a criminal who remains crime-free for a while and then returns to the wrong side of the law.

Reddy said he followed his step-brother into law enforcement because he wanted a challenging job. "And I like the fact that you can control the way you get the job accomplished," he said.

Business completes family

Quality time is more like quantity time for owners of AlphaGraphics, a Canton Township print shop.

The Carrigan father/son business team spend nearly 80 hours a week, most of it together, working and planning the future of their growing firm.

"It's been tough," 27-yearold Mark Carrigan admitted Thursday, "but I'm glad to be working with my dad (Bob). I couldn't have put in all these hours with a stranger. This is our life versus a job, you don't want to do that with someone you don't know."

Three years ago Mark Carrigan was a mechanical engineer based in Dayton, Ohio. He enjoyed good income and reasonable hours, but something was missing. Through other family members, Mark learned that his father planned to open AlphaGraphics, a nationwide printing franchise, and needed someone he could trust as manager.

"We started talking," Mark said, "and the next thing I knew, I was his partner (Sept. 1991). It was very painful leaving good pay and 40 hours, but we're doing well and the plan calls for opening a second store soon."

Bob Carrigan said the working relationship with his son "from my perspective, has

"This isn't an issue of black and/or white, it's an issue of family. Wherever you find kids who respect their elders, you know that there was a father and mother guiding that child.

The breakdown comes when the parents fight and one, and some times both, leave. The child ends up in the street. Do I have to tell you what happens after that.?"

Johnson also noted that the child of today, because both parents usually work, is "too involved in TV where he sees an artificial life based on sex, guns, violence, and they grow up trying to emulate what they see on the screen.

The Johnsons believe that there is only path to the man's salvation - and it's "all there in the Holy Bible.'

Inkster men to face examinations

A May 17 examination has been scheduled for two Inkster men charged with armed robbery and felony firearm before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold.

Leon Jacobs Jr., 18, was recently released from Henry Ford Hospital after getting shot during a robbery attempt at the Park Hill apartments in Wayne April 29, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

He was arraigned bedside before Archbold and a $100,000 bond was set.

Marlon Dillard, 19, from Inkster, was also arrested by Wayne police and charged with armed robbery and felony firearm in the alleged incident. He was arrested at his home, according to Drews.

"He was arraigned May 6 before Judge Archbold," Drews said. "A $100,000 bond was set for him as well."

The two suspects allegedly tried to rob two unarmed residents at gunpoint at the Park Hill apartments, 33000 Park Hill. They knocked at the victim's second-floor unit and barged in when one of the two victim's answered the door, according to Drews.

Drews said Jacobs and his partner ordered the Park Hill residents to hand over cash, but one of the victims, a 21year-old armored car security officer, pulled a .38 caliber handgun and shot Jacobs once in the side.

The second robber, according to Drews, jumped through a window possibly saving himself from a gunshot while Jacobs escaped on foot.

Police later discovered Jacobs at Henry Ford Hospital after checking in with an unexplained gunshot wound.

Bedside arraignment is unusual, Drews said, but the cost of providing around-the-clock security is prohibitive.

The Park Hill resident who pulled the trigger will not be charged, according to Drews.

"He has the right to protect himself if he fears for his life," Drews said. "And that's what happened. Jacobs picked the wrong guy."

Explorers learn police procedures

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER Belleville City Editor

In a turnabout from his usual role, Van Buren Township officer Bart DeVos was a "bad guy" for a day at the Police Cadet Explorer Seminar in Ypsilanti.

DeVos was the subject of a felony arrest by Explorers who followed the instructions of Dale Malesh of the Warren Police Department.

"I started as an Explorer," said Van Buren Township Public Safety Director Mark Perkins, as he opened the seminar. "I had the same hopes and dreams of becoming a law enforcement officer as you have. I was in your shoes."

Perkins said the Explorer program enables young people to obtain an inside look at law enforcement before they make a career choice.

"In addition to providing an opportunity to learn about law enforcement, the Explorers also benefit the community with their volunteer work. For example, they work in the parking patrol at the Wayne County Fair and they do other community service work."

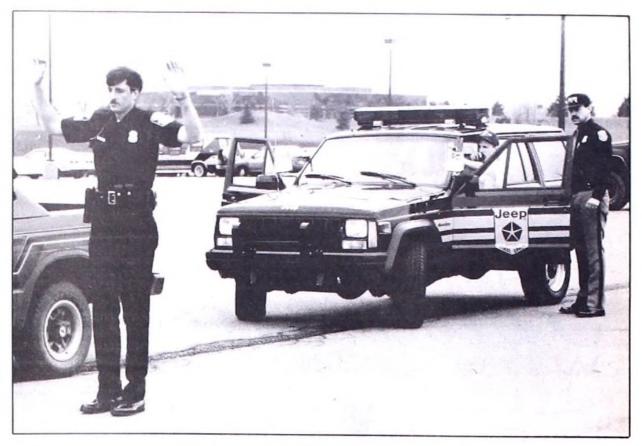

Perkins said competitions between Explorer posts determine the best units in the area.

The 140 participants, between the ages of 14 and 19, began the day- long event with a K-9 exhibition by Van Buren Township officers Terry and Diane Shoenbach and their dogs, Gator and Felony. The Explorers also were taught felony traffic stops by Malesh in morning and afternoon ses-

Anne won the poetry award, not you.

While this poetry may be our best, it certainly is no threat to that of Wayne resident Anne with an "E" Horvath who recently received the 1993 President's Literary Excellence award for writing more philosophical poems than our feeble effort.

The awards were granted to outstanding writers who have participated during the years in the Iliad Literary awards program. Many of the President's award recipients will have their winning literary works published in Celebrations, a new hard cover collection of poems and essays from around the world.

Horvath, 52, has been creating poetic masterpieces for more than two years. She is the wife of Louis P. Horvath and mother of Stacy Ann.

She said her love for writing began when she decided to enroll in a creative writing class at Schoolcraft College.

"I always thought that the Roses Are Red And Violets Are Blue poem was real poetry," Horvath said. "I wrote some when I was a little girl. My father died when I was 17 years old, and he had written a letter to me, but I never received it until after the funeral.

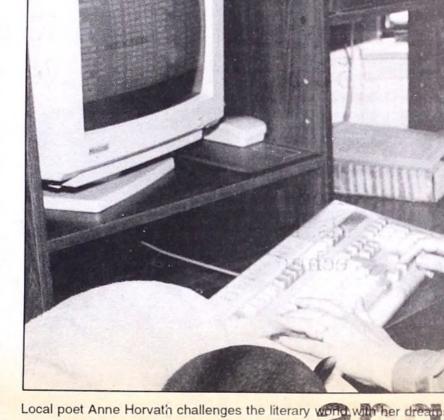

"After that I didn't want to write at all."

Horvath returned to Schoolcraft in 1989. She said she decided to fulfill her life-long dream of becoming a writer.

"In my short biography I wrote for myself I said 'Three years previous, deep in the clutches of an antimenopausal condition, a 30-(with) two semi-clinging Chihuahua puppies attached to my shoelaces, I returned to college to fulfill a lifelong dream to become a creative writer," Horvath said.

Today Horvath said writing is her passion. She is most comfortable turning her thoughts into poetry at her computer with her Chihuahuas sitting to her left.

President's Literacy officials recognized her poem Cradle Of Their Knowing: "Tucked inside the night, weary spirits long imprisoned journey backwards through foothills of tunneled-stone mountains. Searching souls wandering jagged edges of unseen cliffs, unable to clutch the twisting path destined their form. Passing houses of paper windows. fallen leaves turned brown of skin, they pace the frigidbreath of Earth, tremble at the nesting dawn. Like callow children encased in the murmuring of the wind, they decry the the purple chasem into the cradle..of their knowing." Horvath said her inspirations for a poem come mostly from her dreams.

curse of feelings as they cross

"Whatever clicks into my mind I write about," Horvath said. "I can't write what I cannot feel. When I write a poem, I will sometimes work on it for several days. What's nice about a computer is you can move the lines around and go back to make changes at any time."

Although Horvath has now been recognized by many publishing companies for her outstanding work, she said she is never satisfied with the finished product.

"You get to a point where you start thinking about a sentence you could change," Horvath said. "Because I write a lot of poems from my dreams, I have a tape recorder by my bed so I don't forget."

Horvath said she at first felt a little awkward returning to school with students who were younger.

"The students and the instructor all made my return so easy," Horvath said. "I've made a lot of friends, and I'm glad I made this decision.'

Horvath has a very good friend and neighbor, Sharon Genovese, who listens to all of her new poems and critiques them when needed.

"She gives them to me to proof read," Genovese said. "I think she is very talented."

Horvath is working on a book of poems she hopes to publish in the near future. She said she has written more than 100 poems within the last two

"I just enjoy rearranging words," Horvath said. "I really enjoy using the Thesaurus

Book aids parents in dealing with teens

By CRAIG GARRETT ANP Staff Writer

Teenage girls in America are having sex more often, at least half of them with more than one partner and the average age for first timers is 16.

Andrea Warren and Jay Wiedenkeller, parents of two teenage daughters, were shocked to learn one of the two girls had become a statistic in an ever-increasingly sexual teen society. Confronting the situation with wide-open eyes, questioning other teens (both hetero and homosexual) and a telephone book of health professionals, led to Everybody's Doing it, the couple's coauthored "survival" book for parents with teenagers.

"Without talking about morality and religion," the couple write, "we had told them (daughters) that sex was for when one was 'older' and in a 'committed' relationship. We didn't define 'older' and 'committed,' but we knew they knew what we meant."

To be on the safe side, Warren and Wiedenkeller said, they decided to further enlighten the extroverted 16year-old "that guys can sometimes put a lot of pressure on girls to have sex and that if this happened to her, she should say 'no' and say it firmly."

The daughter reminded them that she "could take care of herself."

"Do you ... are you and he (boyfriend)...? "Yes!" she blurted out.

"Now can I go?" Truth dawned like the morning sun, or more literally like a blood-red sunset. "Only a year before," the couple write, "she had been a good kid, going out with groups of friends, having fun, enjoying her adolescence and allowing us to enjoy it too. Then the problems started-the smoking, the arguments, the adolescent angst. And now ....

Writing a book, Wiedenkeller said during a recent telephone interview, wasn't the original intent researching teenage sex after learning their daughter was sleeping with her boyfriend-but that's what evolved. "While many sex-education courses do a fairly good job of teaching facts," Wiedenkeller, a child development director at a Kansas City health center. said, "few of them tackle the tough subjects of sexual consequences, values, building relationships, intimacy and pleasure, and sexual orientation. We're hoping that our book is what parents can turn to for insight and guidance." Visiting dozens of teen and parent groups and talking openly about sex, plus polling health professionals, led the couple on a true journey of altered perception and selfdiscovery, and a primary source of the 237 pages in the

For example, the pair met Dr. Dennis Dailey a professor of social welfare at the University of Kansas and a respected sex therapist. Dailey, Wiededkeller said, "shocked us" with his self-practicing theory of teenage sex.

"He (Dailey) said parents should openly discuss matters of sex and, in fact, encourage them to have sex," Wiedenkeller said. "That blows parents away."

Dailey said he had talked very candidly with his two daughters about sexual gratification, lovers and relationships. Some 50 percent of couples, Dailey said, "Have serious sexual dysfunction sometime in their relationship. Why? Because adolescence is a breeding ground for sexual dysfunction. People believe you can put all that guilt (wait until marriage) on somebody. and then, when they get married, everything will be fine. No! They carry the guilt and shame for the rest of their lives. Warren (a journalist by trade) and Wiedenkeller decided to provide a happy medium for squeamish parents not convinced by Dailey's upfront, in-your-face hypothesis. But giving information doesn't necessarily mean they'll go out and do 'it," Wiedenkeller said. "You, as a parent, are offering help and guidelines. Saying 'If you loved me you wouldn't do 'it' won't work. If you have trouble, provide books and information for them to go look up. Try to use real terms and don't make it dirty and hush-hush. Be honest and drop the judgmental parent/teenager role remembering that you've probably done the same thing along the

"We've learned kids are more likely to postpone sex," he added, "if they're knowledgable and comfortable with themselves. It's still going to be tough, but with that type of dialogue, your kids are more likely to come to you as equal partners and you'll find yourselves at a whole new level of relationship.

Everybody's Doing IT, published by Penguin Books is available in bookstores and libraries around the country.

Theatre group dance will fund restoration project

By MARGO DEWEY ANP Feature Editor

A May 21 extravaganza has been scheduled by the Palace Theater Co. to collect funds for the restoration of the Historic Wayne Theater on Michigan Avenue.

The event will feature Steve King and The Dittilies at the Wayne Ford Civic League on Wayne Road. Cost is $12.50 before the event or $15 at the door. Admission includes pizza, beer and setups.

Tickets can be purchased at the New Wayne Party Shop, northeast corner of Venoy and Michigan Avenue, Wild Bill's Wayne Party Store, Wayne Road, and Marco's Fine Wine and Deli, 7977 North Wayne Road in Westland.

The Palace Theatre Co. is considering establishing a resident performing arts group this year, according to Robert Welch, Palace Theatre Co. president.

"We would like to also produce comedy acts and film festivals as fund raisers utilizing other theaters and stages," Welch said. "The Palace Theater Co. has elected a new board member this year, Bill Butler."

Butler donated funds to have concept drawings designed, and negotiated a donation of a water closet for the basement and sewer cleaning for the theater from Ostlund Plumbing in Westland.

"I believe Mr. Butler will be a great asset to the Palace Theater Co. and the Wayne Theater restoration project," Welch said.

The Palace group completed phase one of the restoration project which included a contract with Carmine Petrilli, consulting architect, and George Williams, mechanical engineer, to develop schematic plans and estimate construction costs of mechanical systems, equipment and site improvements for the Wayne Theater.

"We are still looking for contributions toward the restoration project," Welch said. "For $250 you can adopt a seat in our theater, and we will attach to it a brass plate with your name inscribed on it."

Educators protest library staff cuts

By CRAIG GARRETT ANP Staff Writer

People that make "learning come alive" face the distinct possibility of trying to stay alive themselves, a group of educators told the Plymouth-Canton school board Tuesday.

Representatives of 23 school district media specialists, the men and women handling library service and technology functions, were on hand to outline what might likely happen if operational budget cuts are implemented this fall forcing the district to drastically slash library staff to 11 full-time employees, essentially, in many cases, leaving a majority of students to their own devices.

"I can sympathize that everybody wants the best but they don't want to pay for it," Salem/Canton High School media specialist Sherry Frazier said, "but with millions ($12 million) invested in equipment, software, and personnel, major cuts are foolish and will hurt the quality of education in Plymouth-Canton schools."

School budget reduction talks during recent months have gone from outpatient incision to amputation status. Pink-slip notices have been mailed to 15 administration and 83 full-time staff, plus the district faces additional class, building, transportation and extracurricular cutbacks reaching, district officials predict, $6.9 million if local and state fiscal proposals fail at the June polls.

An informational distributed by media specialists Tuesday outlined several reasons budget cuts in library services would particularly impact Plymouth-Canton students, including:

The district major technology $12-million investment (affecting 19 buildings plus two

Specialists, the report says, serve as district technology coaches; work with staff toward meaningful integration of technology; assemble multi-media collections; assist teachers and protect the district from the "consequences" of copyright violation.

Sherry Frazier

• The information age requires informed consumers and, media specialists, to "teach the research process."

 The current emphasis on the use of literature for reading instruction increases the need for professional guidance.

 Providing expertise in locating and coordinating resources for School Improvement Outcomes.

"We wanted the (school) board to understand that without media specialists," said Frazier, "many kids would be lost. I think people forget just how important the students are in all the talk of millages and property freezes. You can't make readers out of high school students when elementary libraries, and complete programs, are being cut. It's not possible."

Service plan gets support

Michigan Congressman William Ford, chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor, has recently endorsed President Bill Clinton's national service/student aid plan and said he'll put it on the "fast track" through his committee.

"The president's plan gets two A's from me," Ford said, "because it makes a college education or better job training more affordable and accessible to our young people and our workers.

our workers.

"We're taking the best of our 'people' programs from the 1960s--like the Peace Corps, VISTA and ACTION-and reworking them to meet 1990s needs. I'm sure the National Service Trust Act will succeed in helping provide this country with the highly educated and highly skilled work force we need to keep America on top."

Ford said he also supports a second portion of the Clinton package: a direct lending program for students. Phasing in direct lending, Ford said, would save $4 billion by the time direct lending is in full force in 1998.

"The middle men who would have received that $4 billion in taxpayer money may rant and rave," the veteran congressman added, "but I don't have a problem with using their fees to educate our young people. I look forward to guiding National Service Trust Act through the Congress and seeing it signed into law."

The City of Westland Senior Resources Center received $2,598 in donated equipment from Physicians Hospital Administrative Service, Inc. (PHASE). ## No more friends

"You look so much better now that you've put on a few

That's how it started. It was lunch with a dear, dear friend and former co-worker. A woman I hadn't actually seen in two or three years and I finally managed to arrange our schedules so that we could have lunch last week. And honestly, I didn't fully realize the impact of her words until I returned to the office, sat down at my desk in a semi-dazed state and fought the urge to sob.

"Oh, I really like your hair that color-what would you call that, sort of brown with gold highlights? Or is that gray?"

Well, actually, I suppose it is sort of drab, I mean, I don't have the time to spend...wait, wait, why was I making excuses to her for my damn hair color? This is supposed to be my friend, here. Surely she must just be joking with me and I'm just being far too sen-

"Oh, are you going to have a hamburger? All that fat. Well, I suppose you can afford it, but I really have to watch myself if I want to stay a size 4.

Sweetie, you haven't seen a size 4 in...no, no, I'll be nice-I'm sure she doesn't mean it the way it sounds. What business is it of hers what I eat, or if I eat, anyway?

You know, I really admire you. Most everyone has gone and had their eyes done but you just let nature take it's course. You know, on you, those lines around the eyes are sort of flattering. Makes you look, you know, intelligent or something.

I'm beginning to get a bit annoyed here. Why am I listening to this? Why don't I just tell this woman what I really think? Because she's my friend, right? Because I've known her for years and years and she really is a good hearted person and doesn't understand the shallow, media-inspired, anti-female message she's sending me. She's just fooling around-she has to be.

You honestly let the child call you grandma? Oh, well, I suppose it's up to you, but really, that sounds, just so, well, an-

Listen sweetie, I AM ancient, and so are you. He's my grandson, what would you expect me to have him call me?

Oh, of course, I certainly didn't mean to offend you. I am your friend, why I'd do anything to help you, anything. Just name it. Anything at all. You seem so distressed. Is everything all right at home, dear? Do you need help? Let me help you. You can talk to me, you know, I'm your Right. Suddenly I realize why I haven't had time to have lunch with this woman. Now I know why I have hesitated to find time to spend with her. And I certainly know that I have nothing to say to her about anything going on in my

Now, anytime you need to talk, dear, you just call me. Anytime and I mean that. You can always talk to me. After all, what are friends for?

Good question. They are for comfort. They are for humor, for shared experiences, good and bad. They are for compassion, understanding and acceptance. They are for gentle criticism and kind guidance. They are for constant listening and understanding. They are for tolerance and forgiveness. They are forever.

And, obviously, they are very, very hard to find.

Educators evaluate budget cuts, support Proposal A

By JENNIFER PLACINTO ANP Staff Writer

By MARGO DEWEY ANP Feature Editor

Threatened with more than $2 million in budget and staffing cuts at the elementary school level, teachers in the Wayne-Westland schools are concerned about the impact on their students.

The recent defeat of a millage proposal and Headlee Rollback forced the Wayne-Westland schools to slash nearly $14 from the budget. Both staff and services will be reduced, according to plans presented by the administration. The planned cuts are complicated, however, by the tax-reform plan presented by Gov. John Engler which would change the manner in which schools are financed. Under Proposal A, the state sales tax would be increased from 4 cents to 6 cents on each dollar and property tax would be reduced. Schools would then be financed not from property tax revenue, but from state sales taxes, divided on a per-pupil basis throughout the state.

Should voters reject Proposal A at the June 2 elections, staffing cuts will become certain and programs including expressive arts, library staffing, library restoration, instrumental music and vocal concerts and musical activities will be cut from the curriculum in the schools.

Living under the threat of the proposed cuts has had an impact on teachers and principals in the district, although Wildwood Elementary School Principal Larry Waynick supports the actions taken by the members of the board of education as the best that could be done under the circumstances.

"The board had to do what they did by state law. I feel they did the best job they could do," Waynick said.

Partial program cuts would include the building supply budget, cut from $35 to $20 per student and the loss of learning consultants, who help students with difficulties in reading and mathematics.

Waynick said he supports Proposal A because, although it is not ideal, "It's the best thing for the district at this time.

"I think it's good for the Wayne-Westland school district," Waynick said.

"It (Proposal A) would definetly prevent this type of massive dismantling of educational programs throughout the state," he said.

However, both Waynick and sixth-grade teacher Linda Anolick are unsure of the effects of the proposal after the first

"It should help Wayne-Westland, but after the first year there is no guarantee," Anolick said.

If Proposal A is approved, the assessment increases for 1993 will be rolled back to no more than 3 percent above the pre-freeze value for any individual parcel of property.

The majority of school operating millages will be rolled back to between 18 and 27 nonvoted operating mills if the proposal is approved. (Nonvoted operating mills are guaranteed mills schools levy without voter approval),

Proposal A would change the current 50-mill limitation in the Constitution on total school and other local government millages to a 40-mill lim-

Future assessment increases on all individual parcels of property would be limited to the rate of inflation or 5 percent, whichever is less.

Waynick said he was not sure how many teachers at Wildwood would be layed off if the proposal is rejected by voters. However, Waynick said, teachers must receive layoff notices 30 days before the end of the school year and will therefore be notified before the election.

If layoffs occur, Waynick said, teachers with seniority

66 Our per-pupil allotment will decrease which means we're going to lose a great deal of materials for our

will be considered first for every position. Waynick gave the example of an art teacher who is certified to teach third grade and has more seniority than one of the third grade teachers. Waynick said, in this case, the art teacher would take the third grade teacher's position and that teacher would be layed off instead of the art teacher.

Waynick is concerned about the possible closure of the school library. If budget cuts take effect, Waynick said he would find out if the school can have volunteers work in the library. If the school is not permitted to have volunteers, because of contract restrictions, Waynick said teachers will probably use public libraries and their own personal libraries. However, Waynick said, neither option is as good as a school library.

"It (library) would be a terrific loss," Waynick said.

If the current budget cuts are approved, elementary schools will lose their art, music and physical education programs. If this happens, Waynick said, the school week would be cut two hours. Waynick said teachers use that time to plan lessons and since teachers are guaranteed a certain amount of planning time per week under their contracts, the students would miss two hours of school per week.

Waynick feels the board tried to avoid cutting classroom time down, but due to contract obligations it could not be avoided at the elementary level.

"The board made every effort not to reduce the second ary school day," he said.

Waynick could not recall the district ever suffering this magnitude of cuts before.

'We never had to eliminate anything that approached this magnitude. This is the largest reduction in the history of Westland I believe," Waynick Waynick said these cuts would have a detrimental impact on the students because the art, music and physical education programs prepare students to continue into the secondary level. It would also effect the students morale because the children enjoy these programs, Waynick said.

"When we reduce or eliminate expressive arts, there is a definite impact on students' morale. School's just not quite as much fun," Waynick said.

Anolick said the schools never take away art, music or gym as a punishment because those programs build selfesteem and she feels the loss of these classes will hurt the students.

Anolick said the expressive arts programs are really important for students because they may not have the opportunity to participate in these activities outside of school, due to cost or transportation problems.

Anolick said, if the cuts take effect, some teachers would probably try to have more expressive arts in their classrooms, but there is still the problem of the limited supply budget. Anolick said this budget will effect the students academically.

Anolick said people think the school has all kinds of special supplies, but in fact they are basic supplies, such as pencils, paper and staples that could be reduced.

The loss of learning consultants could mean those students with special needs will not get the extra help they need in reading and math. Anolick said she has learning disabled students that won't get the help they need if the program is cut. Students in those categories who do not receive additional help will be at risk, Waynick said.

"I think it's too bad that support for public schools has been so dismal from the state for so long. The burden has been placed on local taxpayers," Waynick said.

In his more than 25 years in the district, this will be the largest number of budget cuts Vandenberg Elementary School Principal Mike Hurley said he has ever seen.

"I've never seen cuts in the Wayne-Westland School District to this degree," Hurley said. "Approximately two years ago we did have to cut 1/3 of the expressive arts program, but now we're going to lose the entire program."

There are 191 students at Vandenberg with a teaching staff of 9 1/2. Besides the expressive arts being eliminated.

Hurley said his students will definitely be impacted by the termination of the instrumental music area.

"Our per-pupil allotment will decrease which means we're going to lose a great deal of materials for our students," Hurley said. "We're already seeing the effects of this taking place.

"We'll lose $10 per student as a result of the cuts. There has also been talk about having each principal handling two schools at one time, but that is just talk right now."

The budget cuts did not affect bus transportation for the elementary students. If Proposal A is approved by the voters June 2, Hurley said it would be a benefit to the district.

"As a parent and administrator I would vote for it," Hurley said. "I think it's a step in the right direction. I live in the district, and I have two children attending schools here so I'm just as concerned about the cuts as everyone else."

Hurley said there have also been discussions about eliminating the number of learning consultants, but no decision has been made at this time.

"Every department in the entire district is going to be affected by these budget cuts one way or another," Hurley said
